

Ken (HOA) — Close the Deal

Follow-Up Playbook · April 21, 2026 · Tidy Tails STL

DEAL RECAP

Contact: Ken (HOA / community property) | Quote sent: April 14, 2026

Install: $900 (2 pet waste stations) | Monthly service: $240/mo (weekly visits, both stations)

Bundle deal: 3-month prepay = install drops to $750

OPENING SCRIPT — CALL, DON'T TEXT

"Hey Ken, this is Jamie from Tidy Tails. I sent over the proposal last week — wanted to circle back and see if you had any questions. We've got the stations picked out and ready to go, so we could have you set up within the week."

Then shut up and listen. Let them talk first. Don't fill the silence.

OBJECTION HANDLERS

"I need to run it by the board"

"Totally get it. Would it help if I put together a one-page summary you could drop in front of them? I can have that to you by end of day."

"The price is a little high"

"The install's a one-time cost — after that you're looking at $60 per station per week, and we handle everything. Most HOAs tell me it pays for itself in resident satisfaction alone. If you want to lock in three months upfront, I'll drop the install to $750."

"Do you have insurance / are you an LLC?"

"We carry general liability — I can send a COI before we start any work. What email should I send it to?"

 Action needed: Get Next Insurance GL policy BEFORE this call if not already insured. nextinsurance.com — ~$25-40/mo, instant COI download.

✓ IF THEY SAY YES

- Lock a start date — "Perfect, I can be out there as early as [day]. Does that work?"
- Get their email — for COI, invoice, and service agreement
- Collect deposit or first month upfront — "We do a 50% deposit on install to lock in your spot"

THE META-MOVE

You've been waiting a week. That's actually fine — it shows you're not desperate. But today is the day.

Call, don't text. Voice closes. Texts delay.

You've been selling for 12+ years. You know what to do. Trust your instincts, let the silence work, and get the deal done.