💡 News & Ideas

📰 TODAY'S STORY

Microsoft Copilot Now Uses Claude for "Critique" Editing Layer

Microsoft's Copilot Cowork (now in Frontier Program) launched a new feature today where GPT drafts research and Claude gives it an accuracy edit pass. This signals AI companies are stacking models — one for generation, one for verification. It's now live as part of Microsoft 365. Why it matters to TJ: AI agent capability is accelerating fast. Franklin is already your single-agent stack; this trend validates the hybrid approach and suggests new Anthropic features are coming to the tools you rely on. Also: WhatsApp is rolling out a native CarPlay app in beta — might matter for hands-free messaging during service routes.

💡 BUSINESS IDEAS

1. Dog Adopter Welcome Pack — Subscription Insert Program

Partner with St. Louis County Animal Control (lead already in pipeline) and Humane Society of Missouri to include a Tidy Tails insert in every new adopter welcome packet. New dog owners don't yet know how much poop their dog produces — hit them before the shock. Charge $0 for the placement, convert them at a 15% new adopter discount. Estimated reach: 200-400 new adopters/month across STL metro. Even at 1% conversion = 2-4 new customers/month from zero ad spend. Could formalize as a "New Paws Welcome Program."

2. Apartment Complex "Perk Package" — B2B Amenity Upsell

Instead of pitching apartment managers on waste cleanup, pitch them on a resident benefit they can advertise: "New tenant perk — free first month of Tidy Tails yard cleanup included with your lease." Manager pays a flat $50-100/month to offer this to all dog-owning residents. You get your foot in the door, residents get a free month, property looks more competitive for pet-friendly renters. After the free month, most will convert to paid. Low-risk for managers, massive top-of-funnel for Tidy Tails. Start with Delrado or Greenway Chase in Florissant — they're already in your service area.

🔧 TASKS FRANKLIN CAN HANDLE (WITHOUT TJ)

- 1 Install GA4 + FB Pixel — 15 min. Both are code snippets added to the site header. Franklin can write the code, TJ just pastes it into Cloudflare or site CMS. Unblocks all ad tracking.
- 2 Draft vendor booth email for Bark in the Park — Franklin can write a polished, personalized email to bark@hsmo.org right now. TJ just reviews and hits send. 2 minutes of TJ's time.
- 3 Build printable "Poop Math" leave-behind flyer — A one-page calculation sheet showing how many pounds of waste 1-3 dogs produce per year, and the Tidy Tails cost vs. DIY. Perfect for Arch Bark and vet clinic card drops. Zero TJ time needed to create it.
- 4 STLAA Vendor Registration research — Franklin can map out the exact steps, cost, and form to register Tidy Tails with the St. Louis Apartment Association vendor directory. ~$200-500/yr; gets you in front of hundreds of property managers. Franklin can prep everything so TJ just clicks and pays.

AI & Security Scan

OPENCLAW VERSION CHECK

✅ Running: 2026.3.28 (f9b1079) — This is the latest release (published March 29, 2026, 01:34 UTC). You are current. No update needed.

i Notable changes in latest release: Qwen portal OAuth removed (migrate to Model Studio API key if you use Qwen). xAI/Grok now uses Responses API with built-in x_search. Config migrations older than 2 months are now dropped — if you have very old config keys, run `openclaw doctor` to validate.

SECURITY SCAN

⚠️ Brave Search API quota exhausted — Full security web search (OpenClaw vulnerabilities, Anthropic CVEs, AI agent threats) could not be completed. API resets April 1. Yesterday's overnight scan also hit this limit. This is the second consecutive day with no web-based security intelligence. Action: Consider upgrading Brave API plan, or use backup search method until April 1 reset.

i From yesterday's memory: "Anthropic security lapse reported Mar 26 — 'Mythos' model name leaked." This was flagged in the Mar 29 briefing but not confirmed via external sources. No CVEs confirmed or denied (searches unavailable).

✅ AI agent security trend (from The Verge, today): Microsoft Copilot now uses Claude for accuracy checking in multi-agent workflows. This "dual-model verification" approach is becoming a security best practice — one model generates, another audits. No direct threats to your setup identified.

✅ No active threats to your OpenClaw setup identified — Gateway is running, cron jobs are firing, no anomalous activity in session logs. Running latest version.

⚠️ Recommendation: On April 1 (when Brave API resets), run a full security web scan manually or via cron. Priority searches: "OpenClaw security vulnerability 2026", "Claude API security", "AI agent prompt injection attacks."
