1 FB Ads URL Swap — /spring → /mothers-day

FIRST THING

The /spring landing page is EASTER-SPECIFIC. It expires today.
Your ads are running at $7/day. Every click until you swap this is landing on a page with Easter countdown timers and "Easter Sunday" copy — which is now 1 day ago. That kills conversion rates immediately.

1 Open Facebook Ads Manager
→ Your active campaign → Ad Set → Edit

2 Find "Website URL" field on your lead form or ad destination
Currently set to: tidytailsstl.com/spring

3 Change to: tidytailsstl.com/mothers-day
New page built April 3 — has countdown to May 10, gift buyer copy, "She got the dog" headline. Live and validated

4 Save and publish
The learning phase resets slightly — normal. The new page converts the Mother's Day gift buyer segment starting now.

Why /mothers-day works starting now:
April 6 is 34 days before Mother's Day (May 10). Husbands and adult kids are already starting to browse gift ideas. The "She got the dog. She also handles the yard." headline targets the exact buyer the Easter ads missed — the gift-giver, not the dog owner themselves.

THE EASTER CLOSER

Easter is over. The egg hunts happened. Some of them were in clean yards — because those people called you. Some weren't.

Today is Day 1 of the Post-Easter Convert Window — the highest-ROI 7 days of the entire spring. Every person who got a one-time cleanup on Saturday or Sunday is standing in a clean yard this morning wondering if it could feel this way every week. The answer is yes. It costs $2.30 a day. You just need to ask.

Send the texts. Swap the ads. Start the week right. 🍲 → 🐕💩 → 💰
