TODAY'S NEWS

Anthropic's Claude Found 22 Firefox Vulnerabilities in Two Weeks

Anthropic partnered with Mozilla and used Claude Opus 4.6 to audit Firefox source code — finding 22 bugs, 14 high-severity, in just two weeks. Mozilla patched them in Firefox 148. This shows AI is becoming a legitimate security research tool — the same models we use daily are catching bugs that human teams missed for years.

Why it matters to you: The AI tools running your business are getting smarter and more capable every week. Our overnight security updates are powered by the same technology.

BUSINESS IDEAS

1. Pet Waste Commercial Contracts via Property Managers

DoodyCalls may be leaving STL. Poopy Paws website is dead. There's a gap in commercial service (apartment complexes, HOAs, dog parks). You already have the equipment and routes. A single apartment complex contract = $200-400/month recurring. Call the 3 biggest property management companies in West County this week and offer a free trial cleanup.

2. Shed Delivery & Assembly Referral Network

You're already selling sheds — but customers constantly ask "who can pour my concrete pad?" Build a referral network with 3-4 local concrete guys, electricians, and landscapers. Take a $50-100 referral fee per job. Zero overhead, pure passive income from customers you already have. Start with one concrete contractor this week.
